SUBJECT: Unannounced Office of Inspector General Visits

The Office of the Inspector General (OIG) plays a critical role in preventing fraud, waste, and abuse within the Postal Service. The OIG serves this role by conducting audits, investigations, and inspections at all levels of the organization.

The OIG has informed us that audit teams will be conducting financial control audits at Postal facilities and may visit worksites in your Area without advanced notice. If you or your employees are contacted by a representative from the OIG working on a financial control audit, please promptly cooperate and provide any requested information.

If you have questions about this OIG activity, you may contact Sally Haring, Manager, Corporate Audit and Response Management, at 202-268-3753 or 202-297-0281.

Thank you for protecting the reputation and integrity of the U.S. Postal Service.
