A self-supporting government enterprise, the U.S. Postal Service is the only delivery service that reaches every address in the nation: more than 161 million residences, businesses, and Post Office™ boxes. The Postal Service generally receives no direct support from taxpayers for its operations. With more than 31,000 retail offices (not including contract offices) and the most frequently visited website in the federal government, the Postal Service relies on the sale of postage, products, and services to pay for operating expenses.

SPOTLIGHT
Send in Style

Share glad tidings and your love of stamps by gifting stylish notecards and stationery from the U.S. Postal Service. Each set features designs from the stamp artwork, giving you and those on your gift list a closer look at the small-scale art made to adorn the corners of envelopes. Unique touches, like embossing, lined envelopes, and die-cut patterns, ensure that these will be impressive pieces of mail.

SPOTLIGHT

More than simply places to buy tickets and wait for a train, railroad stations exude history, romance, and the optimism associated with forward motion. Noteworthy stations began brightening the American landscape by the 1870s and, although many fell to the wrecking ball once they had outlived their original purpose, hundreds survived. The Railroad Stations Forever® stamps feature five architectural gems, each listed in the National Register of Historic Places, that continue to play important roles in their communities.
